Introduction

The Privacy Act

The Privacy Act, which became law in 1974, requires that each federal agency must make an effort to make its data policies known and that it be able to respond to requests for information. It is designed to protect the privacy of individuals by providing the means by which the government may collect, use, disclose, and retain information about individuals. It also provides a means by which individuals may obtain access to information about themselves and may have that information corrected.

Organization of the Index

The Index is organized in the following manner, of which a typical example follows:

I. Introduction

From the introductory pages are provided a general overview of the background information and history of the Privacy Act and of the steps to be taken to obtain access to data.

II. Federal Employee Information Banks — Standard Descriptions

This section contains descriptions of the Federal Employee Information Banks, which are listed in the following order: (1) by agency, (2) by bank, and (3) by subject.

III. Subject Index

The Subject Index may be found in the subject index section of the Index, which is located at the end of the Index.

Under each subject of the Subject Index is a list of the Federal Employee Information Banks which contain information on that subject. This section may be used to determine which of the Federal Employee Information Banks contain information on a particular subject.

IV. Personal Information Banks by Institution

There is one chapter for each government institution, and it contains the names of the banks which contain information on that institution. Each chapter is organized in the following manner:

1. General information on the institution.

2. A list of the banks which contain information on that institution.

3. A listing and description of the banks which contain information on that institution. This section may be used to determine which of the banks which contain information on that institution are of interest to the individual. It may also be used to determine which of the banks which contain information on that institution are of interest to the government.

Introduction

The Privacy Act

The Privacy Act, proclaimed in July of 1983, provides individuals with the right to examine or receive copies of their personal information held by the government, and protects the privacy of individuals by prescribing the manner in which the government may collect, use, disclose, retain and dispose of such personal information. Individuals may request correction of their personal information when they perceive errors or omissions, and may have notations attached to the information where such corrections are refused.

The Privacy Act applies to all personal information as it is defined in the Act, whatever it is used for and however it is kept. It includes, for example, information on complaints or enquiries received about different government programs; information on law enforcement cases or about transactions under social benefit programs; statistical or computerized data concerning individuals; and files on current and former government employees.

The federal government collects information from and about individuals on a wide variety of subjects in order to carry out its programs and activities. While much of this is available for review, some personal information cannot be released to the public under the Privacy Act. Such exemptions include information which is injurious to defence, international relations and law enforcement, and material which might affect the safety of another individual.

Generally, information about a person cannot be disclosed to any other party without that person's consent. There are some exceptions, however, which are listed at the end of this introduction.

The Index of Personal Information

The Index of Personal Information, hereafter referred to as the Index, is published annually by the federal government as required under the Privacy Act. The Index provides a current description of personal information held by those federal government institutions (departments, agencies and Crown corporations) which are subject to the Act. It describes all personal information collected through government programs.

Organization of the Index

The Index is organized into five major sections, each of which is briefly described below.

I Introduction

These introductory pages are designed to provide users with background information concerning the Privacy Act and to refer them to additional sources of help.

II Federal Employee Information Banks — Standard Descriptions

This section contains descriptions of standard information held about government employees, along with procedures on how to gain access to this information.

III Subject Index

The Subject Index may be found in the bright yellow pages near the beginning of the Index.

Beside each key word in the Subject Index is a number — a Personal Information Bank (PIB) number. This identifier helps you locate the PIBs which relate to each key word in the Subject Index. At the end of the Subject Index is a list of the unique institutional identifiers for all institutions included in the Index.

IV Personal Information Banks — by Institution

There is one chapter for each government institution that is subject to the Privacy Act. The chapters are organized alphabetically. Each contains the following information:

- background information on the institution;
- access procedures indicating where formal requests for information should be sent;
- a listing and description of the personal information held by the institution, including the purposes for which the information was collected or compiled, the uses made of it, whether it is disclosed to other institutions and the length of time it is retained by the government;

- an indication as to whether the bank relates to the general public or to federal employees.

A PIB may be deleted when its retention period has expired or if its content has been incorporated into other PIBs. If a PIB has been deleted from a particular chapter, a list of Deleted Personal Information Banks will appear at the end of the chapter.

V Cross-Reference Index of New and Former PIB Identifiers

At the end of the Index is a cross-reference index that links the current PIB identifiers with those used in 1987. Only those identifiers that have changed since 1987 appear in the cross-reference index.

Using the Index

Important Terms

Chapter

Each institution subject to the Act has its own chapter in the Index. The names of institutions are listed in Section IV, along with their corresponding chapter numbers.

Class of Personal Information

The term “class of personal information” is used to describe personal information which is not organized by name or other identifier, or used for any administrative purpose. Such information might include unsolicited opinions, complaints or items of correspondence which are found throughout the general subject files.

Personal Information Bank (PIB)

The Privacy Act requires that all personal information be included in personal information banks (PIBs) where such information:

- has been used, is being used or is available for use for an administrative purpose; or
- is organized or intended to be retrieved by the name of an individual or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned to an individual.

To ensure that the government accounts for all personal information, the Act requires that any personal information which does not meet the above criteria be identified by the institution concerned as a class of personal information.

Each PIB is identified by a title and a numeric identifier.

Personal Information Banks — General Public

These PIBs contain personal information about members of the general public.

Personal Information Banks — Federal Employees

These PIBs contain information about current and former employees of the federal government, including regular and reserve members of the Canadian Forces, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) and incumbents of Governor in Council positions.

The three types of federal employee PIBs are:

- Standard Banks — those containing standard information which all federal institutions maintain on their employees. These banks are identified by the letters SE and a number in the 900s.
- Central Banks — those containing information about employees in all or several institutions. Central Banks are identified by the letters CE and a number in the 700s.
- Particular Banks — those containing information on employees of an institution over and above that maintained in Standard Banks. Particular banks are identified by the letters PE and a number in the 800s.

Privacy Co-ordinator

A person in each federal institution covered by the Privacy Act has been designated as the Privacy Co-ordinator for that institution. Requests for information under the Privacy Act must be made to the Privacy Co-ordinator of the appropriate institution. This person is also available to answer questions concerning your application or the information you want to see. The address and telephone number of each Privacy Co-ordinator is located under the heading, Access Procedures, in each chapter of the Index.

Getting the Most Out of the Index:

A Step-by-Step Approach

The following is intended to help anyone who is unfamiliar with the Index to learn to use it quickly and effectively. It may also be useful as a “refresher” for anyone who uses the Index only occasionally.

1. Prepare Yourself

If you think the information you need is likely to be available informally, you may wish to consult the institution's Privacy Co-ordinator prior to making a formal request under the Privacy Act. The Co-ordinator can also assist you if you require help in using the Index.

Once you decide to make a formal request, you will need a Personal Information Request Form, located in the yellow display box with this Index.

2. Identify the Appropriate Federal Government Institution

If you already know which institution holds the information you wish to see, proceed to Step 3.

If you do not know which institution holds the information, you should use the Subject Index. The Subject Index contains key words which relate to a wide range of subject matters found in the various personal information banks held by government institutions. It is easily recognized by its bright yellow pages.

The Example

...when you look up “Census” in the Subject Index you will see that there are three key words related to it. Beside each key word is a Personal Information Bank number (PIB number) which will lead you to the description of that PIB.

3. Note the Relevant PIB Number(s)

In the Subject Index, a PIB number is written beside each word. If you plan to look up more than one key word and related PIB, it is worth jotting down the PIB numbers before you begin turning the pages.

4. Locate the Appropriate Chapter

As noted earlier, the first three letters of the PIB number identify which federal institution holds the information. If you cannot tell from this three-letter identifier which institution it is, refer to the Listing of Unique Institutional Identifiers, located at the end of the Subject Index. This listing will tell you the name of the institution. At the beginning of Section IV, Personal Information Banks by Institution, a chapter number is listed beside each institution's proper name.

5. Find and Examine the Personal Information Bank Description

Once you have identified the appropriate chapter, turn to it to locate descriptions of the Personal Information Banks held by that institution. Each chapter has its own internal page-numbering system.

6. Complete the Personal Information Request Form

Personal Information Request Forms are located with this Index in the yellow display box. Follow the instructions on the form when making a formal request for access to personal information. If you are or have been a federal employee and wish to consult your records, you may contact the headquarters of the institution for which you worked, or one of its personnel agents in your region. However, if you want to request information under the Act, you must fill out a Personal Information Request Form.

7. Send Your Request to the Appropriate Privacy Co-ordinator

There is no charge for any request for access to personal information under the Privacy Act. Any special requirements for requesting access to specific information banks are included in the description of the information bank. Any access requirements specific to the institution are described under the heading “Access Procedures” at the beginning of the chapter, along with the Privacy Co-ordinator's mailing address.

Once You Have Made a Request

You should be contacted within 30 days after your request has been received by the Privacy Co-ordinator.

If You Believe that the Information is Incorrect

If you receive information in response to your request which you believe contains errors or omissions, you may request that it be corrected. Should the institution refuse your correction, they must make a notation on the information outlining the nature of the correction which was refused. The institution is also required to notify anyone who has used the information during the preceding two years that a correction has been made, or that a correction was requested but not made.

Complaint Procedure

If you believe that the institution took too long to process your request, that you were improperly denied access to your information, that a government institution is improperly collecting, using, disclosing or disposing of personal information, or if the information which you requested was not provided in the official language of your choice, you may complain in writing to:

The Office of the Privacy Commissioner
Place de Ville, Tower B
3rd Floor, 112 Kent Street
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

The Privacy Commissioner will investigate your complaint and report his findings to you and to the relevant institution. If you are still not satisfied, you may take your case to the Federal Court of Canada within 45 days after you have received the Commissioner's findings.

Personal Information Request Form

For official use only

Individuals are required to use this form to request access to personal information about themselves under the Privacy Act.

STEP 1: Decide whether or not you wish to submit a request under the Privacy Act. You may decide to request the information informally, without using the procedures required by the Act, through the local office of the appropriate government institution or through the Privacy Co-ordinator listed in the Index of Personal Information. Copies of the Index are available in public libraries, post offices in rural areas and government information offices.

STEP 2: Consult the Index of Personal Information. If you have decided to exercise your rights of access under the Privacy Act, review the descriptions of personal information for institutions which are most likely to have the information you are seeking. Decide on the personal information bank or class of personal information likely to contain the information.

STEP 3: Complete this personal information request form. Indicate the personal information bank or class of personal information to which you are requesting access, and include any additional information indicated in the bank description to locate the information you are seeking, or to verify your own identity. Indicate whether you wish to receive copies of the information, examine the original in a government office, or if you are requesting other arrangements for access. There is no application fee for making a request under the Privacy Act.

STEP 4: Send the request to the person identified in the Index as the appropriate officer responsible for the particular personal information bank or class.

STEP 5: Review the information you received in response to your request. Decide if you wish to make further requests under the Privacy Act. You may wish to exercise your rights to request corrections or to require that notations be attached to the information when corrections are not made. You may also decide to complain to the Privacy Commissioner when you believe that you have been denied any of your rights under the Act.

II. FEDERAL EMPLOYEE INFORMATION BANKS

Federal Employee Information Banks

Introduction

The provisions for the protection of personal information in the Privacy Act apply to all personal information under the control of the federal government, including personal information about government employees, regular and reserve members of the armed forces, RCMP members and incumbents of Governor in Council positions.

Purpose

The purpose of this section is to provide descriptions of personal information banks relating to current and former employees of federal government institutions where the information pertains to their status as employees, along with procedures for access to these employee information banks. The standard descriptions are provided in order to ensure that the Privacy Act is applied in a consistent manner to employee information held by all government institutions. The banks listed in this section encompass information on all storage media relevant to the purposes for which they have been established.

Description

Employee information banks are described under the following headings as applicable for each government institution:

- (a) Standard Banks, consisting of standard information which all government institutions may maintain on their own employees. It should be noted that some government institutions do not maintain for each employee all the records described in the Standard Banks and that the description of the Standard Banks does not in every case reflect the physical organization of the records maintained by federal government institutions.

While government institutions may declare additional employee information banks — where, for example, an institution is not subject to the Public Service Employment Act or the Public Service Staff Relations Act, — institutions are required to conform to all of the standards indicated in the 21 Standard Banks unless specifically exempted from doing so by the Treasury Board (see Standard Bank Descriptions following.)

- (b) Central Banks, consisting of centralized information on employees in all or several government institutions, maintained by the Privy Council Office, the National Archives of Canada, the Public Service Commission, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Treasury Board and the Departments of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, External Affairs, Health and Welfare, Labour, Public Works and Supply and Services.
- (c) Particular Banks, consisting of information over and above that in the Standard Banks, which some government institutions maintain on their own employees.

In the case of Standard and Central Banks, the social insurance number (SIN) is specifically identified when it comprises part of the personal information in the bank. This is intended to more clearly indicate the purposes for which the SIN is collected and the main use and consistent uses to which the number may be put.

Access Procedures

- (a) Informal Procedures

The informal procedures, in existence prior to the proclamation of the Privacy Act, are maintained to make employee information available to current employees of federal government institutions. Current employees, including employees who have transferred from one federal government institution to another, should seek access to their records by contacting the personnel officers of their current employing institution at headquarters, or in the regions, as appropriate. For access to employee records maintained in Central Banks, current employees should contact the personnel officer of the institution which presently employs them. Current employees are encouraged to provide reasonable identifying information about themselves and the records requested, to assist in prompt and efficient retrieval of their records.

- (b) Formal Procedures

The Privacy Act extends the right of government employee to obtain access to information about themselves in their capacity as employees. To exercise their rights under the Act, government employees should complete a Personal Information Request Form and forward it to the Privacy Co-ordinator, or to other specifically designated officers in their institution. Former employees should in all cases contact the National Personnel Records Centre, National Archives of Canada, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0N3.

Two-Year Rule

Sub-section 4(1) of the Privacy Regulations requires that personal information, including employee information, be retained by an institution for at least two years following the last time the personal information was used for an administrative purpose, unless the individual concerned consents to its earlier disposal. The only exception to this rule is where an Act of Parliament or a Regulation specifically stipulates a shorter retention period. The reason for the two-year rule is to provide individuals with sufficient time to obtain access to personal information which the federal government may have collected or compiled about them for administrative purposes.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, layoffs and tenure; classification, including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries;

The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of 70, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. # ADVISORY COUNCIL ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

Background

Established in 1973, the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) is composed of 30 members appointed by the federal government to bring before the government and the public matters of interest and concern to women, and to advise the Minister responsible for the Status of Women on such topics.

The Council has 27 members appointed for specific terms, with representation from all the provinces and territories, plus a full-time president and two vice-presidents. Council meetings are held at least twice a year in Ottawa.

Overall Responsibilities

In addressing itself to the concerns of all Canadian women, the 30 members of the Council bring forward the particular problems of their regions. Research and background material provide the base upon which Council recommendations are made following deliberation by members at general meetings.

Recommendations for change in legislation and for other measures to improve the status of women are presented to the government through the Minister responsible. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament. Council activities — briefs, speeches, responses to current events, open communication with the public — maintain an awareness of the inequalities facing women in Canadian society today.

ATLANTIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor in Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific — are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority, Ltd. was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule C Part I Crown corporation.

Overall Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries — all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL BOARD

Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act (RSC 1970 c. A-19). In addition to this Act and its related Regulations, the AECB administers the Nuclear Liability Act. The head office is in Ottawa.

Overall Responsibilities

The AECB is empowered by the Atomic Energy Control Act to control the development, application and use of nuclear energy. This is done by a comprehensive licensing system covering all dealings in prescribed nuclear energy substances and items.

The objective of the AECB is to protect the health and safety of workers and the public, and to ensure the physical security and safeguarding of nuclear materials in the Canadian industry. In the occupational health and safety area, the AECB requires verification that workers in the industry are protected against radiation in excess of the limits set out in the Regulations. To this end all workers wear dosimeters, supplied by an approved dosimetry service, to record their exposures, and the AECB appoints inspectors both from its own staff and, by arrangement, from provincial governments and institutions, to assure compliance with AECB licence and Regulations requirements. The AECB also invites federal and provincial health authorities to name experts to act as medical advisers in the field of occupational radiological health and safety. These actions lead to the development of files in which personal histories and occupational data may be stored.

Such exposure may occur in the mining, refining, fabricating, power-generating and waste management sectors of the nuclear industry, and in the fields of use of radioisotopes in industry and medicine. For all these areas there are active files in which events of high exposure to individuals and groups may on occasion be discussed, particularly with respect to accurate determination of the dose value to be recorded in the National Dose Registry (of National Health and Welfare), and to decisions on the hazard presented by such doses to individuals and their continued working in similar environments.

Such records are retained in the subject files in which they arise. ## Overall Responsibilities

In particular, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Council may, to further its objectives:

- assist, co-operate with and enlist the aid of organizations, the objectives of which are similar to any of the objectives of the Council;
- provide, through appropriate organizations or otherwise, for grants, scholarships or loans to persons in Canada for study or research in the arts in Canada or elsewhere, or to persons in other countries for study or research in the arts in Canada;
- make awards to persons in Canada for outstanding accomplishment in the arts;
- arrange for and sponsor exhibitions, performances and publications of works in the arts;
- exchange with other countries or organizations or persons therein knowledge and information respecting the arts; and
- arrange for representation and interpretation of Canadian arts in other countries.

The arts are defined (Section 2) as "architecture, the arts of the theatre, literature, music, painting, sculpture, the graphic arts, and other similar creative and interpretative activities." Council's concerns include not only existing but also emerging new artists, audiences, arts organizations and works in the arts.

The Canada Council has adopted as its general policy objective to recognize, foster, and promote excellence in the arts. Most grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions, juried by practising artists and other independent specialists in the disciplines involved. The principles of advertised competition and peer evaluation are integral to the decision-making process of the Council.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Section 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam Program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

CANADA EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION COMMISSION AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Chapter 8

CANADA EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION COMMISSION AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Background

The Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act, passed in 1977, created the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (EIC) by integrating the former Unemployment Insurance Commission and the former Department of Manpower and Immigration. The legislation also created the Department of Employment and Immigration, which provides services to the Commission and the Minister.

Overall Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate assigned to the Minister of Employment and Immigration under this Act encompasses all matters not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government, relating to the development and utilization of labour market resources in Canada, employment services, unemployment insurance, and immigration.

Two major objectives dominate the work of the Commission/Department: to realize the full productive potential of Canada's human resources, while supporting the initiatives of individuals to pursue their economic needs and, more generally, their self-fulfilment through work; and to administer the admission of immigrants and non-immigrants in accordance with the economic, social and cultural interests of Canada.

Organization

The Commission/Department's National Headquarters is made up of nine major groups. Of these, four are directly concerned with services to the public, and collect, generate and use the bulk of personal information on clients.

Employment Services Group

This group develops and disseminates policies, guidelines and procedures for the delivery of employment services and programs to regional and field offices. It also provides programs, services and information to workers, employers, industries and other persons or groups, in order to promote the efficient functioning of the Canadian labour market. The Group also develops and promulgates policies, guidelines and procedures to meet the needs of particular client groups such as women, natives, disabled persons, visible minorities and other individuals who are considered disadvantaged. Other responsibilities include the administration of employment equity programs and the monitoring and analysis of all services offered by EIC, and responding to ministerial enquiries.

Youth Affairs Group

The Youth Affairs Group is the organizational branch of EIC which supports the office of the Minister of State for Youth by providing a broad advisory and co-ordination role for youth issues and concerns. During 1986-87, the Youth Affairs Group identified, researched and analysed youth issues, particularly federal employment and social policy programs as they related to youth. As a major initiative, the Group undertook an internal review of EIC programs and services affecting youth.

Insurance Group

This group develops and executes legislation, policies, programs and systems with respect to benefit payments and control of payments according to the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, administered by the Commission, including regular unemployment insurance benefits, benefits paid to claimants referred to approved training, benefits paid to claimants in approved work sharing and job creation projects, and labour adjustment benefits. The Group represents the Commission in submitting or contesting appeals with respect to decisions concerning such benefits. It is also responsible for the development of financial parameters under the Unemployment Insurance Act as well as for policy development with respect to the Social Insurance Number Program, the Canadian Government Annuities Program and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program.

Canadian Jobs Strategy

This group designs and administers programs to improve employment opportunities in the Canadian labour market. Programs — either operated directly by the group or purchased from provincial governments through negotiated agreement — deal with skills training; apprenticeship courses; technical or financial assistance; community-based employment incentives; and job creation schemes for student, adult, community or disadvantaged workers.

The Canadian Jobs Strategy announced at the First Ministers Conference in February 1985 is founded on five basic principles which are: training and job creation that is economic in orientation with emphasis on small business and support entrepreneurship; programming that is innovative, flexible and responsive to regional and local needs; a recognition that responsibility for training and employment development has to be shared between governments and the private sector; a commitment to equality of access to training and employment development programs; programs that are simple, understandable and avoid wasteful duplication.

These principles take shape through six major thrusts which are the cornerstone of federal policy for job creation and training: Skill Investment — to enable workers to obtain new skills in response to changing technology; Job Entry — to help young people and women enter the labour market successfully; Job Development — to provide those unemployed for a long time with new opportunities in the labour market, and with private sector support whenever possible; Skill Shortages — to encourage training in areas of critical occupational shortages, when these exist; Community Futures — to extend new opportunities to workers in declining communities through community action, training and mobility; and Innovations — to stimulate innovation, pilot programs, and experimentation by the private sector, the provinces and their educational institutions.

Targets and means of monitoring are established to ensure the equitable participation by women in all labour market programs. There also are special approaches tailored to the needs of individuals with employment disadvantages, and to the special needs of Canada's aboriginal peoples.

The survey is carried out with the purpose of establishing a better data source and therewith reporting certain aspects of the settlement and integration experience of family class immigrants in Canada. Part of the data could be included in the "Annual Report on Future Immigration Levels" presented to Parliament. This improved data bank will be used for planning and administration by identifying priority areas where a policy or a program could be beneficial. The information may be used for internal audit purposes. The data will be kept on the files of Employment and Immigration Canada for use during the years following fiscal year 1985-86.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

The Immigration Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The following sub-systems support the various immigration programs and services. These sub-systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances. All sub-systems are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by information enabling a physical check of the systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system can and do effect the smooth running of others. Approximately 25 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.

- Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1): Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2): IDSO and IDSC maintain a record of all applications for permanent resident status either at an overseas office or from within Canada. The systems produce information in support of the recruitment and selection function. The data is case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1975. Records are kept indefinitely. There are approximately 1,000,000 records on file. (EIC/P-PU-225)
- Landed Immigrant Data System (EDP-3): the Landed Immigrant Data System retains a permanent record of the granting of permanent residence to individuals. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada as well as legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all Commission reports on permanent residents. (EIC/P-PU-230)
- Visitor Data System (EDP-4): the Visitor Data System retains a permanent record of all persons who have been granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period either as a visitor, student, temporary worker or permit holder. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. In addition, information from this system is the sole source for all Commission reports on visitors and Minister's permit holders. Data to produce the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits is retained in this system. (EIC/P-PU-285; 290; 295; 300)
- Enforcement Information Index (EII) (EDP-5): (See EIC/P-PU-265 for details.)
- Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): (See EIC/P-PU-270 for details.)
- Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP-7): FOSS is designed to extract relevant information from other Immigration sub-systems in order to allow status checks by field offices via computer terminal or microfiche. It is the basic support of the enforcement function. The feeder systems are: Enforcement Information Index (EII); Enforcement Data System (EDS), the Landed Immigrant Data System, and Visitor Data System (VIDS). The integrity of FOSS is dependent upon the other sub-systems. FOSS output is available through an on-line terminal system in Canada. A set of EDS (EIC/P-PU-270) and EII (EIC/P-PU-265) cases produced on microfiche and in book form is distributed to Canada Immigration Centres across Canada and to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.

Social Insurance Number Registration

Manager
Central Index
P.O. Box 7000
Bathurst, New Brunswick
E2A 4T1

Information in the individual records includes the applicant's first name, middle name, and surname, date of birth, surname at birth, other surnames formerly used, sex, whether the applicant is a twin, place of birth, father's full name, mother's maiden name; it also shows the social insurance number (SIN) issued or re-issued, marital status, status in Canada, telephone number, mailing address, and may include the name and address of the employer. The microfilm image also shows the date of application and witnesses when required. This bank relates to Canadian citizens, permanent residents, and individuals who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents. This bank contains a microfilm image of each approved application for issuance of a social insurance number, for issuance of a replacement social insurance number card, or for amendment of social insurance register records. The purpose for which the information is obtained is to register persons pursuant to section 125 of the Unemployment Insurance Act and subsection 100(4) of the Canada Pension Plan Act to record persons in respect of whom an application has been made to the Commission, and to identify accurately all persons so registered. It is also for use in the administration of certain acts of Canada, such as the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act, and the Old Age Security Act. It is therefore accessible to the federal government officials whose responsibilities lie in those program areas. Exchange of information with Revenue Canada (Taxation) and other federal departments is also provided for under the Canada Pension Plan Act, the Family Allowance Act, and the Unemployment Insurance Act. Information may also be shared with the Department of Justice for the purpose of administering the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act. Similarly, special social insurance numbers are issued for immigration and other purposes to persons who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Regulations in conjunction with the Immigration Act. Therefore, information on the Social Insurance Number Register is exchangeable with EIC officials administering the immigration program. Section 126(4) of the Unemployment Insurance Act provides for the use of Social Insurance Register data for the accurate identification of individuals and for the effective use by such individuals of their social insurance cards and numbers. On this basis, the Central Index will, if an authorized enquirer presents data about a SIN holder sufficient to identify that holder on the Social Insurance Registers, divulge the holder's SIN to the enquirer. This is known as "give the SIN" and is extended to employers or former employers to meet the requirements of the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Income Tax Act. This service is also extended to other government departments, and to organizations in other levels of governments, where the Commission has approved such an exchange with the enquiring organization. Examples are: Department of National Defence (the social insurance number is used as a service number by armed services personnel), Department of Veterans Affairs, Prince Edward Island Medical Care Plan (administration of Health Insurance Plan), Régie des rentes du Québec (administration of the Québec Pension Plan), and Régie de l'assurance-maladie du Québec (administration of the Québec Health Insurance Plan). Moreover, an employer or former employer who has lost contact with an employee and who needs his/her SIN to meet legal requirements, can obtain it through the Central Index. The RCMP may request data from the bank when they are required for the purposes of investigations under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act, Family Allowance Act, the Income Tax Act, and the Old Age Security Act. Data may also be released to the RCMP to assist the Force to identify deceased persons and to inform their next of kin, where the circumstances of death would otherwise make such identification and notification difficult. Finally, the RCMP may request the identity of the person whose social insurance number appears inscribed upon an item of property believed stolen, where it appears that the owner intended his/her SIN to be used this way. The RCMP may also request information from the Social Insurance Registers for the purposes of accurate identification of individuals. Other police forces may request similar information, but only through the RCMP. Data are retained for an indefinite period. All requests for access by individuals must include name, social insurance number, place and date of birth of the individual and mother's maiden name and be accompanied by the same documentary proof of identity required in submitting an original application for a social insurance number. Particulars of the documentary evidence required can be obtained by contacting any local office of the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission.

CANADA LABOUR RELATIONS BOARD

Background

The original Canada Labour Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Labour Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, c.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part V of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full-time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment.

In general, Part V of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility; that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part IV of the Code, the Board must, upon referral of a safety officer's decision, inquire into the circumstances giving rise to the decision and may confirm the decision or give any direction which the safety officer is entitled to give. The Board also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Chapter 14

CANADA POST CORPORATION

Background

Canada Post Corporation, a Crown corporation, was established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 165 other countries around the world. The corporation moves 30 million pieces of mail every business day to millions of addresses involving over 13 000 retail postal outlets.

Canada Post, with approximately 62 000 employees, has the third largest workforce in Canada outside of government, and with $3 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sector of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records on employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information; employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Access Procedures

Individuals may seek formal access to their records under the Privacy Act by completing and sending a personal information request form to the:

Corporate Privacy Co-ordinator
Corporate Affairs and Audit
Canada Post Corporation
Sir Alexander Campbell Building
Station 235
Confederation Heights
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0B1
(613) 998-9742

Please note:

- There is one main file per Canada Post employee, the Employee Personal File (CPC/P-PE-802). It is a cumulative record of an individual's employment with Canada Post, including summaries and notations concerning more detailed records described in other information banks. While certain of these categories of records may be stored in part or in whole in the Employee Personal File, separate bank descriptions allow for distinct records systems, where necessary, as well as selective access by employees.
- Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.
- To facilitate access and record retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.
- If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.
- Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful.

Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records — employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and tests reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC/P-PU-030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems — Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, Major Account Sales and Marketing Mailing List.

Collection and Delivery of Mail

This class includes copies of receipts given to customers for mail accepted at post office counters and other locations, redirection/hold mail request cards, delivery records for signature services (Registered Mail, Cash on Delivery Service, Certified Mail, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery and Priority Post) and directories or lists of customers used to ensure the proper delivery of mail and the provisions of related services (e.g., Supermailbox Delivery, Letter Carrier Delivery, Group Mail Box and Rural Mail Box Delivery, Electronic Mail). ## CANADIAN DAIRY COMMISSION

CANADIAN DAIRY COMMISSION

Overall Responsibilities

The Canadian Dairy Commission (CDC) was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act, 1966-67. The Commission consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and one other member appointed by the Governor-in-Council; it is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. To assist the Commission with advice on production and marketing matters, there is a consultative committee of nine members, appointed by the Minister, who represent a variety of interests.

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission, under its authority to purchase and sell dairy products, supports the market price of major processed products, principally butter and skim milk powder. The prices that producers receive for industrial milk and cream are related to these product support prices.

The Commission operates a major export marketing program for skim milk powder and whole milk products such as evaporated milk, cheese, whole milk powder and other specialty products.

The Commission makes direct payments to producers from funds provided by the government to supplement returns from the market. These payments are made on qualifying milk and cream shipments produced within a market share quota system to meet domestic market requirements, and a special export program.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through a market share quota program administered under the federal-provincial Comprehensive Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, as chairman of the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), directs the development of policy and co-ordinates the administration of the national quota and provincial market shares, which are determined by the CMSMC, and individual producer market shares which are determined and administered by the provincial milk marketing agencies.

CANADIAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978 and was amended July 1, 1983.

Overall Responsibilities

The Commission's mandate is to foster the principle that every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in all spheres of Canadian life, consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of society.

This mandate is carried out in two ways. First, it deals with complaints of discrimination in employment or in the provision of goods, services, facilities or accommodation based on ten prohibited grounds of discrimination: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. Its jurisdiction includes federal government departments and agencies, Crown corporations and institutions such as chartered banks, airlines, interprovincial transportation systems, as well as the federally regulated portions of the private sector. In order to deal with complaints of discrimination, the Commission must collect personal information about the complainant, employees of the respondent, and third parties. The information could include race, age, marital status, medical or educational history, and is used in order to determine whether there has been a violation of the Canadian Human Rights Act.

Secondly, the Commission conducts information programs in the field of human rights, provides advice, issues guidelines, conducts research, reviews regulations and other instruments, maintains close liaison with the provinces and endeavours to reduce discriminatory practices.

CANADIAN IMPORT TRIBUNAL

Chapter 22

Background

The Canadian Import Tribunal was established under, and derives its authority from, the Special Import Measures Act (SIMA). The Tribunal's main function is to inquire as to whether imports into Canada are causing material injury or retardation to Canadian industry. The Tribunal's inquiries result in the issuance of findings or reports. Findings of material injury establish the basis under which anti-dumping or countervailing duties are levied. Reports assist the government in determining whether safeguard action should be taken respecting other imports.

SIMA came into force on December 1, 1984, and replaced the 1969 Anti-dumping Act. SIMA modernized and streamlined previous anti-dumping and countervailing legislation and brought it in line with Canada's international obligations under the GATT Anti-Dumping Code and Subsidies and Countervailing Duties Code. These agreements were negotiated under the auspices of the GATT "Tokyo Round" of multinational tariff negotiations and signed by Canada in 1979. The prime purpose of SIMA is to protect Canadian industry from unfair import competition.

The Tribunal, an independent agency, conducts several types of proceedings generally in a quasi-judicial fashion. The Tribunal consists of five regular members, to which may be added up to five temporary members. It is supported by a secretariat, which provides support services, and by a research unit, which conducts economic studies. The Tribunal is located in Ottawa. In conducting its inquiries and arriving at its decisions, the Tribunal requests information from interested parties, receives representations, hears evidence and holds public hearings. Although hearings normally are held in Ottawa, they may be held anywhere in Canada.

The Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Customs and Excise, (Deputy Minister) is responsible for several activities under SIMA. These include: receiving from domestic industry complaints of alleged injury to Canadian production from dumped or subsidized imports; conducting investigations to determine the existence of dumping or subsidization; accepting undertakings from exporters; and also levying anti-dumping and countervailing duties where appropriate. Reference to SIMA should be made for further information regarding the Deputy Minister's role under the Act.

The Tribunal conducts different types of proceedings under SIMA which are summarized as follows:

1. Advice to the Deputy Minister (sections 33,34,35 and 37 of the Act) — When the Deputy Minister decides not to proceed with a dumping or subsidization investigation because the evidence does not disclose, to his satisfaction, a reasonable indication of material injury or retardation, the Deputy Minister or the complainant, under section 33(2) of the Act, may refer this question to the Tribunal. The Tribunal's advice as to whether the evidence before the Deputy Minister discloses a reasonable indication of material injury or retardation is conclusive. If the Tribunal's advice is that the evidence discloses a reasonable indication of material injury, then the Deputy Minister must proceed with the investigation.

Where investigations have been initiated by the Deputy Minister, the exporter, importer or government of the country of export may refer to the Tribunal, under section 34(b) of the Act, the question as to whether the evidence before the Deputy Minister discloses a reasonable indication of material injury or retardation. This is done in an attempt to terminate proceedings at the investigation stage. Here again, the Tribunal's advice on the question is conclusive and determines whether the investigation continues or not.

There are also provisions in section 35 of the Act for similar references and advice where the Deputy Minister, after initiating an investigation, concludes that the evidence does not disclose a reasonable indication of material injury.

2. Material Injury Inquiries (section 42 of the Act) — These are economic inquiries involving the examination of a wide variety of factors and the formulation of findings by the Tribunal as to whether the importation of dumped or subsidized goods is materially injurious to Canadian producers of like goods. Findings of the Tribunal that such imports are the cause of material injury result in the imposition of anti-dumping duties or countervailing duties. In addition, pursuant to section 45 of SIMA, the Tribunal must report to the Minister of Finance if it is of the opinion that the imposition of duties in full or in partial amount would not or might not be in the public interest.

3. Report to the Governor in Council (section 48 of the Act) — The Tribunal is asked to inquire into and report on matters referred to it by the Governor in Council. These inquiries are generally more extensive and far-ranging than injury inquiries. Services as well as goods may be included in this type of inquiry.

4. Reviews of Prior Material Injury Findings (section 76 of the Act) — The Tribunal may, on its own initiative or at the request of the Deputy Minister or any person or government, review its prior findings and may rehear any matter in this process. In addition, the Tribunal may review any findings of material injury made under the Anti-dumping Act and still in effect at the time of the proclamation into force of SIMA.

5. Importer Ruling (section 89 of the Act) and Reconsideration of Finding (section 91(1)(g) of the Act) — The Tribunal may be asked to rule on the question as to which of two or more persons is the importer in Canada of goods on which anti-dumping or countervailing duty is or may be payable. Also, the Tribunal may reconsider any finding it has made when its ruling as to who is the importer identifies a person other than the one specified by the Deputy Minister.

The Special Import Measures Act, the Regulations and the rules should be consulted for the purpose of interpreting and applying the law.

Employee Personnel Record

This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above. The information in this bank relates to employees of the institution. The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation. The information is used to authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; and to unions for dues check-off purposes. Records are retained by the current employing institution. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed.

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Chapter 27

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency. Its mandate was to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

Overall Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and the private broadcasters. It has the power to issue, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic agreements and capital stock issues.

In order to fulfill its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information on applicants and existing licensees operating broadcasting undertakings (cable, radio and television) across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns filed under the Statistics Canada Act. Programming on radio and television is monitored, and operating stations submit detailed program logs every year. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express their views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure.

The Commission receives complaints and enquiries from specific individuals or corporations regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications.

Grants and contributions are occasionally made through the Commission's research branch. However, this program has been temporarily abandoned.

General Information

General information can be obtained either in person, by telephone, or by writing to CRTC headquarters at: Central Building, Les Terrasses de la Chaudière, 1 Promenade du Portage, Hull, Quebec, specifying the appropriate service and floor.

In addition to searching out areas needing new broadcasting services, and assessing existing services, the regional offices are available to provide general information and assistance to the public, applicants, interveners and licensees in the regions.

The Canadian Wheat Board was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat, and since 1949, oats and barley, produced in the area designated by the Act.

The Board is also responsible for administering a delivery quota system which is designed to ensure equality of delivery opportunity among producers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets to elevators and railway cars. The Board also administers the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to producers undertaking to deliver wheat, oats and barley as quotas permit.

Candidates use voters' lists during their election campaign and at polling stations to check on the right to vote of citizens. Nomination papers and voters' lists are public documents only during the election and can be inspected at the office of the returning officer during the election; after the election the Chief Electoral Officer retains these documents. All election documents, as defined by the Act, are retained by the Chief Electoral Officer for a period of one year following the election as required by the Act. After that year, most of those documents are sent to National Archives of Canada; voters' lists are microfilmed.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF OFFICIAL LANGUAGES

Overall Responsibilities

The terms of reference of the Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages (OCOL) are set out in the Official Languages Act. This legislation was passed in July 1969 and came into effect in September of that year. The terms of reference consist of ensuring recognition of the status of each of the official languages and compliance with the spirit and intent of the Act in the administration of the affairs of the institutions of Parliament and the Government of Canada. The first Commissioner took office on April 1, 1970.

The Commissioner fulfils his or her duties in three ways: he/she investigates complaints regarding matters governed by the Official Languages Act; he/she carries out studies, research, analyses and audits with respect to the equal status of and rights and privileges connected with the official languages; and, lastly, he/she encourages application of the Act by providing information and advice, and by working with the public as well as with federal organizations. The Commissioner's mandate encompasses the entire federal apparatus — departments, agencies, Crown corporations, and so on.

CORRECTIONAL SERVICE OF CANADA

Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service. The Correctional Service of Canada, as it stands today, provides programs for offenders from pre-admission until the expiration of their sentence. It operates on the basis that the offender must be viewed from physical, emotional and cultural aspects.

Overall Responsibilities

The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system, has as its mission to contribute to the protection of society by exercising safe, secure and humane control of offenders while helping them become law-abiding citizens. The Correctional Service carries out its mandate pursuant to the Penitentiary Act and other relevant statutes such as the Parole Act, the Young Offenders Act, the Prisons and Reformatories Act, the Criminal Code of Canada.

In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as the community at large, with special consideration for victims of crime; federal law enforcement agencies, such as the RCMP, CPIC; municipal, regional and provincial police forces; municipal, regional and provincial government bodies; foreign governments; other federal departments or agencies such as the National Parole Board, the Department of External Affairs, the Department of Employment and Immigration; and after-care agencies and medical authorities. The information is contained in the banks listed hereafter.

Correctional Service of Canada

While employees of the Correctional Services of Canada may pursue this route to gain access to their records, they are encouraged to request access from their local personnel offices.

Access requests must be accompanied by name and birth date of the person mentioned in the personal information bank; where an offender bank is being accessed, the requestor must indicate the Finger Print Sheet number and the name of the penal institution or of the parole office. Where the requestor is an ex-offender, he/she must also provide his warrant expiry date and the name of the penal institution from which he was released.

Access requests to specific banks can necessitate additional information. This information has been indicated in the related banks. Any additional access requirements for specific banks or classes of records are included in their descriptions.

Classes of Personal Information

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. A 15-year development agreement, the Prince Edward Island Comprehensive Development Plan, was signed by Canada and the Island in 1969, under the authority of the Fund for Rural Economic Development Act. The Plan has allowed for the design and implementation of a broad range of programs to stimulate economic growth, create jobs and raise per-capita income. Special areas have been designated in Canada, such as the Magdalen Islands, in order to deal with special problems of economic expansion and social adjustment. In addition, under the Federal Development Strategy for Prince Edward Island, the Department delivers the Small Business Assistance Program which provides financial assistance for capital projects.

Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics, and the humane treatment of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Employment Equity Program

The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are an aboriginal person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records. The information relates to employees of the institution. This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the employment equity policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, aboriginal peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g.

The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's employment equity program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal public service. It may also be used for training, development, policy and planning purposes related to employment equity. The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established.

Telephone Call Detail Information

This bank contains details of all commercial long distance calls and government intercity network calls placed from government telephones which are provided as part of GTA's Local Shared Service and all calls placed on the GTA intercity network using government authorization codes. For calls originating from GTA Local Shares Service telephones, the information includes the originating number, the number dialed, the intercity route taken, the date and time the call started and the duration of the call. For calls placed using authorization codes, the authorization code is added to the above information and the originating number will be replaced by an incoming trunk number. Telephone numbers dialed may include any telephone which is accessible on the commercial long distance network, the government intercity network or other dedicated departmental networks. People placing the calls include government employees, anyone who subscribes to GTA Local Shared Service, and anyone having access to a GTA-provided telephone. This includes Members of the House of Commons, Senators and their staffs; employees of agencies and Crown corporations included under Schedules A and B of the Financial Administration Act. Since many of the GTA-provided Local Shared Service Telephone numbers can be identified with a specific individual and call authorization codes are assigned to a specific individual by departments, the calling patterns and numbers dialed may reveal information about that individual. It can also reveal information about calls to a third party. GTA does not maintain in the call-detail files either the names to whom telephone numbers have been assigned or a list of which individuals have been assigned specific call authorization codes. Maintenance of this information, if necessary, is the responsibility of the department/agency which pays for the usage charges. GTA does maintain a separate directory database which is public knowledge and is published in government telephone directories either semi-annually or annually. The information is collected and processed to provide a basis for the billing of government departments/agencies for the charges incurred by GTA in providing the government intercity network; to provide particulars needed by departments/agencies to manage and control their use of GTA-provided network facilities and the resulting costs; to allow GTA to monitor, manage, control, forecast and plan the government intercity network. It is also used to monitor the performance of the network so that GTA can judge whether value has been received from the suppliers of the network. The information is provided to all GTA regional offices and to all government department/agency telecommunications officers or their authorized representatives so that they may manage and control their organization's use of the GTA intercity network, further allocate the costs within their department and ensure that the intercity network facilities are being used appropriately. Retention period for records in this bank is yet to be determined.

Chapter 39

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

Background

Although the history of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is comparatively short, some branches have been in existence for more than a century. The Geological Survey of Canada, founded in 1842 by Sir William Logan, is the oldest scientific organization in Canada. Earth Physics, formerly the Dominion Observatory, dates from 1871 and parts of the Surveys and Mapping Branch were established in 1872.

The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) was created in 1966 by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act. Previously known as the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, it took on a new and important role as policy maker in energy development. Since then, the Department has been given a stronger mandate to fulfill its role as the principal federal agency responsible for the discovery, investigation, development and conservation of Canada's mineral and energy resources.

Overall Responsibilities

The department administers three programs: the Energy Program, the Minerals and Earth Sciences Program and the Administration Program. Collectively, the programs of the Department provide a continuum of initiatives directed towards national economic development issues.

The objective of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is to promote the discovery, development and efficient use of the country's mineral and energy resources and to broaden the knowledge of Canada's landmass for the benefit of all Canadians. To attain this objective, the Department devises and fosters national policies based on research and data collection in the earth, mineral, and metal sciences; and on policy, economic and social analyses. ### Chapter 41

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Background

The Department of External Affairs was established by an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade operation. Since then, two additional cabinet ministers, a Minister for International Trade and a Minister for External Relations have been appointed. The new Department of External Affairs Act came into force on December 7, 1983.

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of External Affairs has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and to international organizations including close contact, communications and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interests; to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; to ensure the co-ordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organization

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises regional passport offices in Canada and missions abroad bearing different names and performing varying functions. Within Canada, the regional offices of the Department of Regional Industrial Expansion (DRIE) support the export promotion program of the Department.

Lists with individual specimen signatures of Fish Health Officials are sent to Local Fish Health Officers (LFHO's) who administer the Fish Health Protection Regulations in each province/region of Canada. LFHO's use the lists to verify signatures on Fish Health Certificates that are required before import permits can be issued for importation or transfer between provinces of cultured salmonid fish. DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Chapter 44

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Overall Responsibilities

The department was established under section 15 of the Government Organization Act, 1966, now the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act (RSC 1970 c. 1-7, as amended). The Department is, in effect, an amalgamation of the responsibilities of the then Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, and the then Department of Citizenship and Immigration pertaining to Indian people in Canada.

The federal government's legislative responsibilities for Indian and Inuit derive from section 91 (24) of the Constitution Act (1867) which gives the federal government the exclusive authority to pass laws relating to "Indians, and lands reserved for Indians". On the basis of this authority, the Indian Act, which remains the major expression of federal jurisdiction in this area, was passed and a series of treaties was concluded between Canada and various Indian bands across the country. Federal jurisdiction for Indian people under the B.N.A. Act was subsequently (in 1939) interpreted by the courts to apply to Inuit as well.

Within this legislative framework, the Department has a number of interlocking responsibilities and objectives: to initiate, encourage and support measures that will respond to the needs and aspirations of Indian people and Inuit, and that will improve their social, cultural and economic well-being; to encourage the orderly economic and political development of the Northwest and Yukon Territories, and to co-ordinate all federal activities in the two territories; to ensure that lawful obligations to Indian people are met and to settle native claims relating to traditional native use and occupancy of land in those areas of Canada where this traditional use has not been extinguished by treaty or superseded by law.

Organization

The organizational structure of the Department is divided into six operative program areas: Self-Government; Economic Development; Indian Services; Lands, Revenues and Trusts; Northern Affairs; and Finance and Professional Services.

Access Procedures

The department encourages requestors to utilize the present lines of communication and to request personal information through informal channels. The intent is to make available as much information as possible through informal channels. Therefore enquiries for personal information should be made directly, where possible, to the departmental office having control of the record(s) concerned. For further information contact the departmental or regional co-ordinator.

If the formal access route is used, requestors should complete a Request for Access to Records Form available at national headquarters, regional and district offices. The completed form for national or regional data banks should be forwarded to the Regional Privacy Co-ordinator for your area, and to headquarters for data banks which are only located at headquarters. If you have any problems in identifying the location, the application should be forwarded to the Departmental Privacy Co-ordinator.

To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations.

In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, Legal Aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native courtworker programs, and access to legal information.

The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

This impacts on a current public office holder's ability to deal with the former member.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained by this department for the duration of employment plus two years, after which the records are destroyed.

Reserve Force Civilian Occupations

Description: This bank holds information contained on completed questionnaires. It includes the following information: social insurance number, name, education, union/professional association membership, language proficiency, as well as non-personal information relating to a Reservist's civilian employer, such as name, nature of employer's business, whether employer provides supplies or services to DND or NATO countries, and number of employees. This information will assist in developing a formal set of guidelines on employment in the Reserves during both peace and war for individuals in certain civilian occupational categories.

Consistent Uses: Where a Reservist is designated for a key military position but is also employed in a key civilian position, a resolution between DND and the employer may be sought with Employment and Immigration Canada acting as arbiter.

This directorate, through three divisions, is responsible for ongoing Old Age Security, Family Allowances and Canada Pension Plan legislative reviews and updates; for related policy planning and development; for the application of legislation and the administration of appeals; for the review and analysis of information programs. An

Programs Operations Directorate

This directorate, through five divisions and a network of regional offices and client service centres, is responsible for the administration of the Income Security Programs. A brief description of the programs follows:

The Old Age Security Program: provides a basic level of income for older Canadians through a pension which is supplemented by the income-tested Guaranteed Income Supplement for pensioners who have little or no other income as well as an income-tested Spouse's Allowance for spouses, aged 60 to 65, of pensioners already in receipt of the Guaranteed Income Supplement.

The Canada Pension Plan and Old Age Security Act also provide, in accordance with international social security agreements, for the payment of benefits under the above-mentioned programs.

The Family Allowances Program: supplements the income of families with dependent children in order to help meet the additional costs associated with raising children. It also provides for the payment of an allowance to welfare and government agencies and other institutions which maintain children.

The Accommodation Program fulfills the custodian service role to provide the full range of office and other forms of accommodation space required to support the operations of Government.

The Government Realty Assets Support Program provides a central capability for the Government to achieve wider social, economic and environmental objectives related to real property.

The Marine Transportation and Related Engineering Works Program provides specific locks, dams and dry docks services and related infrastructure to facilitate marine transportation and related economic and social development goals.

The Land Transportation and Other Engineering Works Program provides certain highways, bridges and other engineering works to facilitate land transportation and related economic and social development goals.

Classes of Personal Information

Project Records

In carrying out its mandate, the Department generates and receives a large volume of information and correspondence related to work projects. These projects include property acquisition, disposal, expropriation and management; building, highway and marine construction, repair and demolition; dredging services and fleet management; and the provision of associated research, development and consulting services.

Included in this material are often found the personal views and opinions of individuals; evaluations of contractors' and consultants' performance; financial information relating to the management of projects; and any other correspondence associated with specific projects. The retention periods associated with this class of personal information are controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Project records are organized by location. Consequently, access to personal information in project records requires the individual to provide the location of a specific project as well as the nature of the project.

General Operational Records

The Department maintains, in addition to specific project records, general files associated with its operational activities. Occasionally, personal opinions expressed by individuals are maintained on these general records. Access to these records requires the requestor to identify, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information to which he/she wishes access.

Classes of Personal Information

Enterprise/Industrial Development and Assistance

The Department and its predecessor departments have administered a number of enterprise/industrial development and assistance programs. These programs have been aimed at encouraging enterprise and industrial development in a wide variety of ways. Personal information may be collected in the course of these departmental activities. Programs and activities which may have involved the storage of personal information include the Industrial and Regional Development Program, the Regional Development Incentives Program, the Enterprise Development Program, the Tourism Destination Program, the Tourism Incentives Program, the Industry and Labour Adjustment Program, the Support for Technology Enhanced Productivity Program, the Program for Export Market Development, the Canadian Industrial Renewal Board Program, the Defence Industry Productivity Program, the Pharmaceutical Industrial Development Assistance Program, the Credit Reinsurance Program, the Shipbuilding Industry Assistance Program, the Small Business Loans Act Program, the Advanced Technology Program — Waterloo Centre for Process Development, the Small Business Investments Grants, the Government Procurement Projects, the Industry Energy Research and Development Program, the Major Crown Projects, the Machinery Program, the Native Economic Development Program, TIEM Inc. and the Western Transportation Industrial Development Program.

Personal information may include particulars such as the names, addresses, social insurance numbers, financial interests, management capabilities, employment histories, remuneration, age, health, marital status and educational background of individuals. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the program area, the corporate/project name, the location of a facility and the approximate date of submission/award.

General Development Agreements, Economic and Regional Development Agreements, Subsidiary Agreements and Related Initiatives

The Department has collected data needed for the administration of subsidiary agreements entered into with the provinces, consistent with the terms and conditions of general development agreements previously signed with all provinces, except Prince Edward Island, and the new economic and regional development agreements entered into with the 10 provinces. The general development agreements, which expired on March 31, 1984, established the framework for development and identified development opportunities for implementation under subsidiary agreements. A number of these subsidiary agreements are still in effect, for instance, the Canada-Alberta Subsidiary Agreement on Nutritive Processing Assistance and the Canada-Manitoba Subsidiary Agreement on Northern Development. The economic and regional development agreements, which succeed the general development agreements, provide a framework for co-operation and consultation on matters relating to economic development in each province and region. As opportunities are identified, individual subsidiary agreements are formulated. These opportunities are normally unique to a province and, as a result, subsidiary agreements cover a broad range of specific programs.

Personal information may be stored in administering a number of subsidiary agreements. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the name of the project or program that may be related thereto and the approximate date of submission/award.

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, federal-provincial agreements, such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA), are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. In addition, a Native Economic Development Program has been created to increase economic self-reliance and development for Canada's native people. A 15-year development agreement, the Prince Edward Island Comprehensive Development Plan, was signed by Canada and P.E.I. in 1969, under the authority of the Fund for Rural Economic Development Act. The plan has allowed for the design and implementation of a broad range of programs to stimulate economic growth, create jobs and raise per capita income. In addition, under the Federal Development Strategy, the Department has been involved in providing further economic development activities in P.E.I. Special areas have been designated in Canada, such as the Magdalen Islands, in order to deal with special problems of economic expansion and social adjustment.

Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided, such as the name of the program concerned, the name of the specific project and the approximate date of submission/award.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Chapter 54

Background

The Department of the Solicitor General was established in 1966 when Parliament enacted the Department of the Solicitor General Act, which assigned to the Solicitor General, responsibility and accountability for the management and direction of reformatories, prisons, penitentiaries, parole, remissions, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Evolutionary additions and changes to these responsibilities resulted in the Department's reorganization into a ministry, incorporating the Secretariat, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Correctional Service of Canada, the National Parole Board, the Office of the Correctional Investigator, the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) and the Office of the Inspector General.

Overall Responsibilities

The Solicitor General discharges certain duties specifically assigned under a number of acts, notably the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, the Penitentiary Act, the Parole Act, the Prisons and Reformatories Act, the Immigration Act, the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act, the Criminal Records Act, and the Criminal Code of Canada. ## ECONOMIC COUNCIL OF CANADA

Chapter 57

ECONOMIC COUNCIL OF CANADA

Background

The Economic Council of Canada is an independent research and advisory body established by Parliament in 1963 with broad terms of reference to study and report on a wide range of matters relating to Canada's economic development.

The Act stipulates that the Council is to advise the government on "how Canada can achieve the highest possible levels of employment and efficient production in order that the country may enjoy a high and consistent rate of economic growth and that all Canadians may share in rising living standards."

By mid-1966 the Council had developed a staff of about 100, including some 40 research officers drawn from federal and provincial departments and agencies, business firms, labour organizations, universities and international institutions. The Council itself was comprised of 28 members representing all regions of Canada and most socio-economic interest groups, with three acting in a full-time capacity — the Chairman and two directors. The size of staff has varied over the years, with the introduction and termination of special references to the Council playing a major influence. As well, the in-house capacity of the Council to model, monitor and analyse the workings of the economy has been built up over time. The net result has been to increase the size of staff to about 124 individuals at present. Council membership currently numbers 22, including the three full-time members.

The Council has three principal functions, namely

- to conduct economic analyses and undertake studies with a view to providing a greater understanding of the workings of the Canadian economy and its prospects for the future;
- to make recommendations to government and the private sector on economic policy measures to improve Canada's economic performance;
- to educate and inform the Canadian public on economic problems and to stimulate, through the media and other forums, public discussion of policy solutions and economic strategies.

Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Act (proclaimed in force on October 2, 1975) to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

While the IDB was primarily concerned with the provision of financial assistance, the Federal Business Development Bank was created to promote and assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, management counselling, management training, information and advice, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses. The Bank provides small business enterprises with a single source from which both financing and information suited to their unique requirements may be obtained.

A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small businesses located in each branch territory.

GREAT LAKES PILOTAGE AUTHORITY, LIMITED

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific — are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited was established and incorporated in 1972 as a subsidiary of The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Authority is a Crown corporation specified in schedule "C", Part I of that Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The role and objectives of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; all waters in the Province of Quebec south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. (Pilotage in the international waters within the boundaries is shared with United States of America Pilot Corporations, which are under the direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a memorandum of arrangements between Canada and the United States.) Further, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District Operations office is located at the headquarters in Cornwall, Ontario and the Western District Operations office is located in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management services (administrative, personnel, financial, procurement) are provided by the head office in Cornwall, Ontario.

IMMIGRATION APPEAL BOARD

Background

The Immigration Appeal Board is an independent court established under the Immigration Act, 1976, to hear appeals made under the Act, and to consider the redetermination of claims to United Nations Convention Refugee Status. Under the Act, the Board consists of not less than seven and not more than 18 members who are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The present Board consists of the Chairman, five vice-chairmen and 11 other members. A quorum of the Board is not less than three members, one of whom must be the Chairman or vice-chairman.

Organization

The Board's headquarters is located in Ottawa. It also has permanent regional courts in Ottawa (the National Capital Region), Montreal (Quebec and the Maritimes), Toronto (Ontario) and Vancouver (British Columbia and the Yukon). A permanent registry office is located in Winnipeg and serves the Prairies and Western Canada. The Board travels to other cities in Canada as the volume of cases warrants.

The Board is supported by an Operations Branch (Secretariat) with three regional offices.

The Board hears appeals made by permanent residents of Canada or Convention Refugees who have been ordered deported; persons holding a valid visa who are refused entry into Canada; the Minister of Employment and Immigration when he or she is not satisfied with a decision of an adjudicator which allows a person to remain in or enter Canada; Canadian citizens who have sponsored an application for landing in Canada by a member of the family class which has been refused.

Persons who have made a claim to be a Convention Refugee within the meaning of the UN Convention relating to the Status of Refugees, and whose claim has been refused by the Minister of Employment and Immigration, may apply to the Board for a redetermination of that claim.

The Board is a court of record and appeals; applications and related proceedings are heard in open court except where, at the request of one of the parties to an action, the Board in its discretion directs that the proceedings shall be in camera.

The Minister of Employment and Immigration is a party to all proceedings before the Board.

In making its decisions, the Board is bound by the legislation and the ensemble of Canadian immigration jurisprudence and relevant decisions and interpretations of higher courts; its proceedings are governed by rules of procedure and it has the powers, rights and privileges of a superior court of record.

Hearings are open to the public. The record of any proceeding before the Board is public information and access is provided by the registrar on request (except in the very few cases where the proceedings are in camera).

MINISTRY OF STATE FOR SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 70

Background

In 1971, the Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST) was established by Order-in-Council for the purpose of formulating and developing policies in relation to the activities of the Government of Canada that affect the development and application of science and technology, and was presided over by a Minister of State and a Secretary reporting to the Minister.

Since July 15, 1983, the Secretary has also been chief science advisor (CSA) to the government, responsible for providing expert and objective advice to Cabinet and its committees on priorities for, and the planning of, Canada's overall science and technology effort.

This change of role necessitated that the Ministry be reorganized in order to give the CSA direct access to Cabinet. The new organization permits the Ministry to perform the central agency function of formulating policies and providing advice on science and technology to the federal government. Its mandate covers the science and technology activities of departments, and includes other activities such as those of industry and universities insofar as they interact with the federal government.

On May 27, 1985, the Prime Minister directed the Minister of State for Science and Technology to undertake new functions not previously identified in the mandate of the Ministry. These new responsibilities included the preparation of an annual overview and analysis of the government's activities in science and technology; the formulation of advice on measures to strengthen the effectiveness of federal science and technology program expenditures, especially concerning industrial support, technology transfer and strategic technologies; as well as responsibilities for the negotiation and management of federal/provincial agreements on science and technology.

The Ministry provides secretariat services for the National Advisory Board on Science and Technology (NABST), the Interdepartmental Committee on Space (ICS), the National Biotechnology Advisory Committee (NBAC), and the Inter-Council Coordinating Committee (ICCC).

NATIONAL FILM BOARD

Chapter 76

NATIONAL FILM BOARD

Background

The National Film Board (NFB) was established by an Act of Parliament on May 2, 1939, and revised in 1950. The NFB reports to the Minister of Communications. Its mandate is to produce and distribute Canadian film and video, as well as to promote their production and distribution.

Overall Responsibilities

The NFB's purpose is to make films which are distinctively Canadian. These films reflect the bilingual, multicultural and regional realities of this country and answer the social and cultural needs of its citizens. NFB productions are distributed on film and videocassette and are available through Canadian theatres, library collections and its own audio-visual centres. Across the country, NFB films are seen on broadcast and specialized television. The NFB also operates an International Commercial Service to sell and market its films abroad. NFB films are also available in some Canadian diplomatic missions abroad.

NFB films are produced by distinct English and French program branches which are also responsible for marketing their films to their respective English and French audiences. In the early 1970's NFB production began to decentralize its production studios and the ensuing years have seen production studios developed in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Moncton, and Halifax, as well as in Montreal. There is a permanent creative staff in Montreal, though a large proportion of NFB films are made by freelance independent filmmakers. The NFB is a totally integrated production and distribution house. The average annual production of the NFB is approximately 100 original films and 50 versions and adaptations of existing films. The NFB produces versions of its films in several different languages for foreign distribution. It also produces IMAX films. The Services Division undertakes advanced technical research and development to further the art and technology of film and video.

The NFB also has a mandate to play an active role in training people in all aspects of filmmaking.

Organization

The Board of Trustees of the National Film Board is composed of the Canadian Government Film Commissioner — who is both the Chairperson and Chief Executive Officer of the NFB — and eight other members appointed by the Governor in Council, three of whom are selected from the public service of Canada or the Canadian Armed Forces and five from the public at large. The NFB is managed by the Government Film Commissioner and by the directors of the English Program Branch; the French Program Branch; the Services Division; the Vice-Government Film Commissioner and Corporate Affairs Division; the Administration, Finance and Personnel Division; the Communications Division; and the Employment Equity Program Division.

The head office of the NFB is in Ottawa, while its operational headquarters are located in Montreal.

NMC/P-PU-015 Fellowship

NATIONAL PAROLE BOARD

Chapter 79

NATIONAL PAROLE BOARD

Overall Responsibilities

The National Parole Board (NPB) is an independent, administrative agency within the federal Department of the Solicitor General. In accordance with the provisions of the Parole Act and other relevant statutes, the Board grants, denies and controls the conditional release of inmates from federal institutions and (with the exception of the granting of temporary absences) from provincial institutions in those provinces without a provincial parole board (the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia have their own provincial parole boards). The Board also has the authority to order the detention of inmates past their presumptive release date in certain circumstances. The Board makes recommendations to the Solicitor General of Canada for the exercise of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy and for the granting or revocation of pardons under the Criminal Records Act.

In order to satisfy these responsibilities, the Board creates and maintains individual case files on people who are subject to its decisions. The personal information is collected from individuals themselves and a wide variety of sources: courts, law enforcement agencies, the Correctional Service of Canada, provincial correctional authorities, other federal departments, medical authorities, private after-care agencies, and the general public. This information is contained in the Parole Case Files information bank and the Clemency Case Files information bank. Statistical information drawn from these two banks is stored electronically in the Board's EDP System (APIS).

In addition to these two banks and the standard employee information banks, the Board has banks containing correspondence sent by or to individuals requesting access to their files under the Privacy Act or to government records under the Access to Information Act.

Access Procedures

Requests for access to the following personal information banks should be referred to:

Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinator
National Parole Board
Sir Wilfrid Laurier Building
340 Laurier Avenue West
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0R1
(613) 995-1308

Applicants are required to provide appropriate identifying information about themselves such as name, address, date of birth, National Parole Board file number (if any) and any additional information deemed useful to identify the appropriate file. Applicants who also wish to have access to the electronic version of their file stored in the APIS system must do so by request. On May 1, 1988 the Board began recording all hearings with offenders. Access to copies of cassette tape recordings of these hearings is provided informally and individuals may request a copy of their own taped hearing by contacting the NPB regional office responsible for their case.

NPB/P-PU-005 Parole Case Files

Description: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; progress reports, appraisals and recommendations from staff of penal institutions and parole offices; records of Board decisions and related documentation; warrants and certificates; memoranda and letters from other agencies, government departments and the general public; and electromagnetic cassette tapes of hearings with offenders.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a federal penitentiary; individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a provincial institution and applied for parole to the National Parole Board. These records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was created, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives.

Purpose: Parole case files are used by the National Parole Board in accordance with the provisions of the Parole Act and other relevant statutes, to determine eligibility and suitability of inmates for full parole, day parole, unescorted temporary absences and, in some cases, escorted temporary absences; to set terms and conditions of all types of conditional releases and to review performance on such releases; to consider modifying or reducing conditions of release; to consider restoration of earned remission, lost as a result of revocation of parole or mandatory supervision.

Consistent Uses: To fulfill its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board gathers a great deal of personal information about offenders under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including, the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual to whom the information pertains. In addition, the significant public education role that the Board has to play and the wish to demonstrate to the public the fairness of its decisions, allows the general public, where legitimate reasons exist, to be informed of decisions concerning offenders currently under its jurisdiction as well as the general reasons supporting these decisions. However, the information shared under these circumstances is either factual and/or publicly available, and is general enough to ensure sufficient protection against any invasion of privacy of the individual to whom the information pertains. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole Board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records, except electromagnetic cassette tapes, are kept for 15 years after Warrant Expiry Date or death of the individual and destroyed thereafter except when they are the subject of criminological research. Records deemed to be of archival or historical value are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Electromagnetic cassette tapes are kept only for two years. Where written consent has been obtained from the individual, the tapes may be destroyed sooner.

Clemency Case Files

Description: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; appraisals and recommendations from NPB and/or Correctional Service of Canada staff; records of Board members recommendations and related documentation; warrants and certificates; memoranda and letters of other agencies, government departments and the general public; and electromagnetic cassette tapes of hearings with pardon applicants. Social insurance numbers (SIN) are found in this bank in the cases of military personnel who request pardons from the Board, since the Department of National Defence (DND) uses the SIN as a personal identifier for its personnel. Board usage of SINs is dependent on DND usage.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who have applied to the National Parole Board for a pardon under the Criminal Records Act or an act of clemency under Section 22(2) of the Parole Act with respect to the Royal Prerogative of Mercy or pursuant to the Letters Patent, Sections 683 and 685 of the Criminal Code of Canada. Records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was opened, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives.

Purpose: To determine eligibility and suitability for the granting of a pardon or other act of clemency or for revocation of a pardon.

Consistent Uses: To fulfill its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board gathers a great deal of personal information about applicants under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual to whom the information pertains. However, unless the pardon was subsequently revoked, personal information banks containing files of individuals who have been granted a pardon are kept separate and the content cannot be disclosed to any person without the prior approval of the Solicitor General who, before granting such approval, has to be satisfied that the disclosure is desirable in the interests of the administration of justice or for any purpose related to the safety or security of Canada. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole Board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Pardon — for premature requests, files are kept for two years; for discontinued requests, files are kept for two years after the last contact with the applicant; for pardon granted, files are kept to age 70 or one year after the death of the subject is confirmed by the RCMP; for pardon revoked or not granted, files are kept for ten years after a final decision. Royal Prerogative of Mercy — files are kept for a period of ten years following the last administrative action. Once the retention periods are satisfied, clemency case files are either destroyed, or transferred to National Archives of Canada if deemed to be of archival or historical value. Electromagnetic cassette tapes are kept only for two years. Where written consent has been obtained from the individual, the tapes may be destroyed sooner.

Chapter 81

NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION AGENCY OF CANADA

Background

The National Transportation Agency (NTA) is responsible for the economic regulation of transportation in Canada. Established on January 1, 1988, by the National Transportation Act, 1987, the Agency's headquarters is in the National Capital Region. Regional offices are in Saskatoon and Moncton. The NTA replaces the Canadian Transport Commission which existed for 20 years under the previous National Transportation Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The object of the Act is to encourage a safe, economic, efficient and adequate transportation system to serve the needs of shippers and travellers.

The Agency performs all the functions vested in it by the National Transportation Act, 1987, and related legislation (principally, the Railway Act, Western Grain Transportation Act, Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act, Maritime Freight Rates Act, Canada Shipping Act, Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, Pilotage Act, and Railway Relocation and Crossing Act).

The NTA has all the powers, rights and privileges of a superior court in Canada. Applications for review of an NTA order or decision can be made under section 41 of the National Transportation Act, 1987. Appeals can also be made to the Federal Court or by petition to the Governor in Council.

The National Transportation Agency consists of a maximum of nine permanent members, including the Chairman and Vice-Chairman. All are appointed by the Governor in Council. At least one member must represent each of the regions of Canada: Pacific, Prairie, Ontario, Quebec and Atlantic. Up to six additional members may be temporarily appointed to the Agency.

The powers and duties of the Agency are divided among four transportation program branches. They are: Dispute Resolution; Market Entry and Analysis; Transportation Subsidies; and Rail Safety. Other branches include Management Services, Legal Services and Secretariat.

Access Procedures

Any Canadian citizen or permanent resident, as defined by the Immigration Act, 1976, who believes the Agency holds information of a personal nature about them, may request access to that information by writing to:

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Background

The Public Service Commission (PSC) is a politically independent agency accountable to Parliament for the administration of the Public Service Employment Act (PSEA).

The jurisdictional powers of the PSC rest with three commissioners — one chairman and two members. They are appointed by the Governor in Council for a 10 year term and have the status of deputy head. Together, the commissioners set the overall policy in accordance with the Public Service Employment Act. A majority of the commissioners constitutes a quorum. The chairman is chief executive officer.

The PSC, as it is known today, evolved gradually from the Civil Service Commission (CSC), which was established in 1908 under the Civil Service Amendment Act. This Act introduced the principle of merit as established by competition. However, it did not apply to positions outside of Ottawa. The Civil Service Act of 1918 placed the entire Service under the CSC. The Civil Service Act of 1962 preserved the independence of the Civil Service Commission and maintained the fundamental principles of the merit system.

The Public Service Employment Act of 1967 reaffirmed the merit principle and changed the name of the Civil Service Commission to the Public Service Commission. The PSC's main task became staffing, and the Commission was allowed to delegate staffing authority and power to departments. The PSC retained full responsibility for administering the appeals system. The Commission's responsibility for pay, classification and conditions of employment were transferred to the Treasury Board of Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

The primary responsibility of the Public Service Commission today is to ensure that the merit principle, as determined by the Commission, is upheld in public service staffing operations. This is accomplished through

- the appointment or provision for the appointment of qualified persons to or from within the public service;
- the development and administration of processes and standards for selection of candidates for positions in the public service;
- the operation of an appeals system for appointments and demotions or releases for incompetency or incapacity; and
- the conduct of audits to evaluate the manner in which staffing authority has been exercised.

PSEA also provides for the Public Service Commission to

- promote the participation of women, francophones, native people and other under-represented groups in the public service;
- ensure that physically and mentally disabled persons are given effective equality of opportunity to compete for positions in the public service;
- provide professional leadership in facilitating, stimulating and operating programs of development and training, including language training and services, to bring about improvements in the skills and qualifications of public service employees;
- maintain an effective appeals mechanism for employees of the public service in respect of appointments, releases and demotions;

- investigate complaints of inequity and unfairness in employment under PSEA; and
- make decisions on allegations of political partisanship.

Members of the public seeking information about various PSC programs, services and policies are encouraged to telephone the Information Centre at (613) 996-5010. The Centre is located in Ottawa at 300 Laurier Avenue West (West Tower, L'Esplanade Laurier).

The purpose of this bank is to maintain information regarding the level of performance of individual employees within government institutions, and to determine the level of performance of individual employees, including the identification of training and development needs, approval of performance pay and annual increments, retention of employees,

Employment Equity Program

This bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are an aboriginal person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records. This information relates to employees of the institution. This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the employment equity policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e. g. women, aboriginal peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e. g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected. The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's employment equity program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to employment equity. Records are retained for five years and then destroyed.

Background

The Ottawa Mint was originally established in 1908 as a branch of the Royal Mint of London, England. On December 1, 1931, an Act of Parliament established the Royal Canadian Mint as a branch of the Department of Finance. On April 1, 1969, the Mint became a Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Supply and Services. New Legislation passed in December 1987 marked the Mint's reclassification as a Schedule C-II Crown corporation. Its Head Office is in Ottawa, Ontario. Its two plants are located in Ottawa and Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Mint's primary purpose is to produce and arrange for the production and supply of coins of the currency of Canada. It also competes on the world market for contracts to produce circulating and numismatic coins and other devices for foreign trade dollars for government departments and private firms. The Mint also operates a refinery to melt, assay and refine gold, silver, and other metals.

Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police was formed in 1873, under an Act of Parliament. In accordance with the present RCMP Act, the Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General of Canada, is responsible for the control and management of the Force.

Overall Responsibilities

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police enforces laws throughout Canada made by or under the authority of Parliament. Administration of justice within the provinces, including enforcement of the Criminal Code, is the responsibility of provincial governments. The RCMP has contract agreements with the two territories and all provinces, except Ontario and Quebec, to enforce criminal, territorial and provincial laws, pursuant to section 20 of the RCMP Act.

The headquarters of the RCMP is located in Ottawa. The RCMP is divided into divisions, each division being roughly responsible for a province or territory, and is further divided into subdivisions and detachments. Under the Commissioner at headquarters, functional direction is provided to the divisions by Deputy Commissioners in charge of Administration, Operations, Law Enforcement and Protective Services, and Corporate Management.

Specialized support is offered to the divisions by Air, Marine, Forensic Laboratory and by Identification Services.

The RCMP Academy located at Regina, Saskatchewan is responsible for recruit training. The RCMP Musical Ride and the RCMP Band are located in Ottawa and are administered by Headquarters. Additionally, the RCMP is responsible for the administration of the Canadian Police College, located in Ottawa. The Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC), a computer-based police information system, is also based at and administered by RCMP Headquarters in Ottawa.

The CPIC system is an advanced computerized information storage and retrieval facility, designed for the use of participating Canadian law enforcement agencies. The CPIC acts as a central repository of operational data that is contributed to and maintained by participating Canadian law enforcement agencies. RCMP records entered into the system are identified in their respective Bank of Personal Information. The participating Canadian law enforcement agencies are entirely responsible for the accuracy and immediacy of the data which they supply and maintain within the CPIC System. Records entered into the CPIC system by participating Canadian law enforcement agencies must be supported by documented reports held by the originator. The originating agency is the only one entitled or enabled to alter their records in the system.

Access Procedures

All requests for personal information under the Privacy Act are processed centrally and should be addressed to:

The Commissioner
Royal Canadian Mounted Police
1200 Alta Vista Drive
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0R2
Attention: Departmental Privacy Co-ordinator

The diversity of operations within the federal, provincial, municipal and territorial jurisdictions results in information storage systems that are decentralized, except for matters of national security where one master system is maintained in Ottawa. For this reason persons submitting requests for personal information on the Personal Information Request Form must indicate the geographic location they want searched.

SCIENCE COUNCIL OF CANADA

Background

The Science Council of Canada was created by the federal government in 1966 to provide independent advice on science and technology policy in Canada. Its duties are set out in the Science Council of Canada Act and were enlarged by amendments made in 1978. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of State for Science and Technology, the Council operates at arm's length from government, designing its own programs of research and publishing its findings at its own discretion. The Council is involved in a number of projects in different areas of science and technology policy at any given time. Major studies on topics selected by the Council are usually carried out under the guidance of a committee, which is composed either of Council members or of Council members and outside experts. Research and policy analysis are conducted by Science Council research staff and, when necessary, outside consultants. The work may involve conferences or workshops that permit the participation of individuals from across Canada who are concerned with the issue under study. Science Council staff also carry out feasibility studies of proposed research projects, studies of urgent issues identified by the Council executive, and studies requested by the Minister of State for Science and Technology.

The Science Council consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and up to 28 members drawn from all regions of Canada and representative of a wide variety of disciplines and interests. A balance is maintained between the academic and industrial communities. With the exception of the chairman and vice-chairman, all serve without remuneration.

Overall Responsibilities

The Council's major responsibilities are to analyze science and technology policy issues, recommend policy direction to government, to inform Canadians as to the impact of science and technology on their lives, and stimulate discussion of science and technology policy among governments, industry and academic institutions.

Access Procedures

Information on the Council's access and privacy procedures may be obtained from the Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinator. All written requests should be addressed to:

Chapter 97

STANDARDS COUNCIL OF CANADA

Background

The Standards Council of Canada (SCC) was established in 1970 by an Act of Parliament to foster and promote voluntary standardization in Canada as a means of advancing the national economy, benefiting the health, safety and welfare of the public, assisting and protecting consumers, facilitating domestic and international trade, and furthering international co-operation in the field of standards.

Overall Responsibilities

The Council carries out its task through the National Standards System (NSS), a federation of accredited independent organizations concerned with standards writing, certification, and testing co-ordinated by the SCC. The system was created to provide a medium through which Canadian organizations involved in such activities may operate and co-operate to recognize, establish and improve standardization in Canada. It provides a comprehensive Canadian standardization capability to meet both national and international requirements and responsibilities.

The Council ensures effective Canadian participation in the work of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) and any other similar international organizations engaged in the formulation of voluntary standards. Both of these international agencies have as their objective the development of standards, with a view to facilitating international exchange of goods and services. ISO work is concerned with standardization in many disciplines, except for the electrotechnology field which is IEC's responsibility.

STATISTICS CANADA

Chapter 98

Background

Statistics Canada collects and provides statistical information on the characteristics and behaviour of Canadian households, businesses, institutions and governments for research, policy development, program administration, decision-making and general informational purposes. This is done under the authority of the Statistics Act which prohibits the disclosure of identifiable information to anyone but the individual concerned.

The statistical information banks maintained by Statistics Canada contain some personal information that has been obtained from a variety of sources. Information is collected directly from the individual through the censuses of population and agriculture, from sample surveys such as surveys on income and expenditure, labour force surveys and special surveys. It is also collected through certain formal agreements the agency has entered into with large social institutions and various levels of Canadian governments. These arrangements give Statistics Canada access to administrative records for the purpose of extracting data on the client populations of the institutions of Health, Education and Justice and on the activities of the population as it comes in contact with the state (e.g., the registration of births, deaths and marriages).

One of the most important of these agreements is one Statistics Canada has with Revenue Canada (Taxation) to access taxation returns for statistical purposes, thus allowing the use of an administrative file of the federal government containing a wealth of information on the socio-economic fabric of the Canadian population. The accessing of taxation records has allowed Statistics Canada to exempt many respondents, particularly small businesses, from the filing of regular questionnaires. Statistics Canada also accesses administrative files of other federal government departments relating to unemployment insurance and divorces.

Information banks maintained by Statistics Canada are largely automated. Since records in these banks are meant to be used for statistical purposes and not for administrative purposes, they are rarely classified by name. In fact, few data banks contain names. Some banks are organized by a unique identifier, be it a number assigned by Statistics Canada, a number assigned by the administrative source, such as a registration number, or the social insurance number. Records in other banks are classified geographically, or by the name of the company. It should be noted that many of the statistical data banks contain only a sample of the population. To locate a statistical record, Statistics Canada will require, in most cases, not only an identifier, but additional information such as the time period in which an individual has responded to a survey, or his/her street address, or his/her industry sector.

Access Procedures

Section 12 of the Privacy Act gives every person the right to obtain information about him/herself contained in a personal information bank or other personal information about him/herself under the control of a government institution. Because some of the information Statistics Canada has was obtained through data-sharing agreements, such information cannot in many cases be disclosed to anyone unless express authorization is obtained from the data source. Consequently, Statistics Canada will redirect a request to the data source which, in many cases, will be more expedient in terms of time and cost savings, since that source has collected the information for administrative purposes and can more readily retrieve the information than Statistics Canada can.

Individuals seeking personal information about themselves contained in personal information banks or in classes of personal information should address their enquiries to:

STC/P-PU-005

Census of Population — Microfilmed Records

Description: This bank contains information obtained from the censuses of population taken since 1901. The records are identified by name and contain information on the social and economic characteristics of every person in the country. The records in this bank, which are organized on a geographical basis, are microfilmed copies of the original questionnaire dating back to 1901. To retrieve a record from this data bank, the precise address at the time of the census is required. Please note that only the individual named in the record can have access to information it contains, or the legal representative of a minor, incompetent or deceased person, but only to settle the affairs of the estate of that person.

Class of Individuals: All individuals in Canada at the time of the census.

Purpose: The Census of Population is a national inventory of Canada's key socio-economic phenomena, conducted at prescribed intervals by statutory requirement. The data collected, when compiled into statistics, are used for a wide range of purposes including the determination of economic and social policies, planning industrial development, and estimating needs for schools, roads and many other public services. Population figures are used to determine electoral district boundaries, and to calculate per capita grants to provinces and municipalities.

Consistent Uses: A program has been established called the Census Pension Searches to provide proof of age, or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administration records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Current policy is to retain these records for 100 years.

Related to COR: STC/COP-015

TBS Registration Number: 001839

STC/P-PU-007

Census of Population — Testing Program

Description: This bank contains information collected from surveys used to test Census of Population questions. The records in this bank are organized geographically, by test module and year. To retrieve a record from this bank, the precise address at the time of the test, the name of the test module and the year surveyed are required.

Class of Individual: Individuals selected to participate in voluntary Census-testing surveys.

Purpose: The surveys are part of the testing program for the Census of Population. The objectives of the test surveys are to determine whether new or revised questions proposed for the Census can be easily understood and correctly answered, and to assess public reaction to these questions by testing them on a small-scale and voluntary basis.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The records are retained for five years.

The National Registration Regulations pursuant to this legislation gave custody of the records to Statistics Canada, then known as the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Consistent Uses: A program has been established called the Census Pension Searches to provide proof of age, place of residence, family relationships or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The data are maintained in such a way as to permit the production of statistics at the level of selected Census Metropolitan Areas (CMA), economic regions and the provinces, and for selected non-CMA urban areas based on quarterly estimates. It is for this reason that information relating to an individual cannot be retrieved based on name alone. The requestor must provide the month(s) and year surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. There are also a number of special surveys that are conducted as supplements to the Labour Force Survey covering a variety of topics including work patterns, leisure time activities, absence from work, travel to work, income, etc. To retrieve a record, the requestor must provide the subject of the special survey, the year the survey was conducted, and the precise address at the time of the survey.

Long-Term Medical Follow-Up Study Files

Description: The Long-Term Medical Study Files are comprised of information from two sources: input study files from groups outside Statistics Canada, and the Mortality Database which is part of the Integrated Vital Statistics Database STC/P-PU-035 maintained by Health Division. The input files contain records of individuals which have been supplied by employers, unions, health surveys or other research groups. These input files are then matched to the Mortality Database to provide information on date, cause and place of death. The input study files may contain from several hundred to many hundreds of thousands of records depending on the size of the study group. Individual identifying information includes names, birthdate, birthplace and place of residence. The name of the individual's parents or spouse may also be included where this information is required to confirm the validity of a linkage. The input study file and the file containing the death records to which the study file records were linked are kept separately. An identification number is present on both files which can bring corresponding records together if necessary. The files are stored on passworded tapes in the Statistics Canada tape library.

Class of Individuals: This database contains records of individuals who form part of population groups identified by employers, unions, health surveys, or other research organizations.

Purpose: Health statistics, in general, are used to describe the state of health of the Canadian people and the occurrence of illnesses. In particular, these files are primarily used to provide researchers with data they need to compare the rates and causes of death in groups exposed to different levels or types of chemicals, diet, medical treatment, x-rays, disease, etc. This in turn gives information needed by policy makers to set appropriate levels of exposure to toxic agents in occupational, environmental and medical settings.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are generally retained for a minimum of five years.

Post-secondary Student Survey

Description: The survey population for the 1984 Post-secondary Student Survey (approximately 944 000 individuals) was provided by the registrars of post-secondary institutions and included the name, address, telephone number and registration characteristics of all students registered in a regular credit course during the fall term of the 1983-1984 school year. A sample of 64 000 individuals was selected for the survey from this population. A total of 45 000 responses were received. ### National Graduates Survey

Description: Surveys among graduates of post-secondary education programs have been carried out in 1984, 1987 and 1988. The surveys were carried out using a sample of 1982 graduates (for the 1984 and 1987 surveys) and 1986 graduates (for the 1988 survey). In each case, lists of graduates from universities, colleges and trade-vocational schools were obtained. The lists contain information relating to approximately 220 000 1982 graduates and 250 000 1986 graduates. The information includes the name, address, telephone number, graduation qualification and major field of study for each graduate. Approximately 50 000 persons were selected to be interviewed for each survey, with 36 000 responding in 1984. The 1987 survey attempted to re-interview these 36 000, obtaining approximately 31 000 responses. Information collected included the extent of work experience before graduation and in the years after graduation, occupations and industries for jobs being held two years (five years in the 1987 survey) after graduation, details of further studies since graduation, and general classificatory information (e.g., age, marital status, sex, language).

Class of Individuals: This information relates to graduates from trade-vocational, college and university programs in calendar years 1982 and 1986.

Purpose: To produce statistical information for monitoring graduates' transition from school to work and their success in finding work related to their fields of study. The information is provided to students and guidance counsellors to help choose appropriate fields of study; and to education planners to organize courses and programs of study. It is also used by analysts to develop projection models of supply and demand of manpower by occupation, seeking out imbalances in the labour market. Also included are evaluations of the extent to which graduates succeed in finding jobs related to their fields of study, and the extent to which retraining leads to career changes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 100 years.

Database on Disabled Persons

Description: This database contains information on disabled persons in Canada, including the number of disabled persons, the nature and severity of the disability and the barriers faced by disabled persons. The information also addresses the need for, as well as the use and availability of, special aids and services. Although the name of the disabled person was collected at the time of the survey, it is not data-captured and, therefore, does not appear on the automated database. The precise address of the disabled person at the time of the survey is required, therefore, to locate a record.

Class of Individuals: Disabled persons in Canada.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to identify those Canadians who, for health-related reasons, are limited in the amount of activity they can perform on a day-to-day basis, and the nature and severity of the disability and the barriers that they face. This information is essential, particularly to governments and private organizations, to the process of developing programs and policies to eliminate these barriers.

Consistent Uses: The 1986 Census of Population was used to identify a sample of disabled persons who were subsequently interviewed in the Health and Activity Limitation Survey. The output of this survey was linked back to the 1986 Census of Population file to obtain demographic data which were not included in the survey questionnaires. This would ease the burden on respondents since they had already provided this data for the Census.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 100 years.

Purpose: The information in this bank is obtained in order to determine whether to pursue in a court of law those individuals who have refused to complete a Census of Population or Census of Agriculture questionnaire as required by the Statistics Act.

Consistent Uses: The original records are provided to the Department of Justice for prosecution purposes.

Classes of Personal Information

Business Statistics

The business database contains information which relates to the major industrial and services sectors of the economy. The information is obtained from establishments within companies through surveys, and from administrative records. It is used to describe the whole range of business activity in Canada, the goods and services produced, the cost structure of each industry and the location of industrial activity. It measures the kind and quality of goods produced, the costs of materials, labour and capital employed and the prices of both material and final products. The information is also a vital input to the System of National Accounts.

As some of the businesses surveyed are unincorporated, there is personal information in this database relating to owners of unincorporated businesses who can be identified by a social insurance number. The business data bank may contain personal information in respect of unincorporated businesses in the forestry, mining, energy and resource and manufacturing sectors; in retail and wholesale trade; in rail, road and water transportation industries; in services, communications and tourism industries; relating to general and trade contractors; and to importers and exporters.

Household Surveys

The Household Surveys Division is responsible for a number of household surveys including surveys on family expenditures, household facilities and equipment, and incomes of Canadian families and individuals. In some cases, the name of an individual respondent is collected. In other cases, the respondent may be a household unit or a spending unit. In all cases, however, the information is maintained geographically and is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

Following is a description of the classes of personal information maintained by the division: Survey of Consumer Finance: This is an annual survey of households, conducted on a sample basis, designed to measure the distribution of income and to provide other yardsticks of the economic well-being of Canadian families and individuals. The records carry information on wages and salaries and other income, selected family and personal characteristics. To retrieve a record from this class of personal information, the requestor must provide the year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. For those years when the survey is carried out in conjunction with the Labour Force Survey, it may be possible to locate records relating to an individual. However, for those years when it is conducted independent of the Labour Force Survey, after the processing cycle is complete and the questionnaires are destroyed (usually after one year), it would be necessary to provide certain personal characteristics such as age and sex to permit the identification of an individual in a household group. Family Expenditure Survey: The survey collects information, obtained by a sample survey of households, on expenditures by families and single persons living in private households, covering their complete budgets. A primary use of the information is for reviewing and updating the weights for the Consumer Price Index. As with the other classes of personal information maintained by the agency, this information is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

Administrative Files Obtained from Federal Government Departments for Statistical Purposes

The Statistics Act, under which Statistics Canada operates, gives to the Agency the authority to access records maintained in any federal department or municipal office, corporation, business or organization where the information sought relates to the mandate of this Agency. Accordingly, Statistics Canada has entered into a number of arrangements with other federal government departments to access administrative files of those departments for the purpose of extracting data for statistical purposes. This has allowed Statistics Canada to exempt many respondents, particularly small businesses, from the filing of regular questionnaires.

Since the use made by Statistics Canada of this information is secondary to the original purpose for which it was gathered, requests for access to personal information from these files should be addressed to the department responsible for the original collection of the data. Any requests received by Statistics Canada, either for a copy of an individual record or for corrections to a record, will be referred to the originating department for response.

The following is a list of the files obtained. Statistics Canada may receive the entire file or only part thereof, depending on its requirements:

Such personal information may have been accumulated in the process of handling such complaints and enquiries as are made to the Minister and the Department. Due to the special nature of the Department's activities, these personal complaints and enquiries are usually forwarded to the appropriate department for individual assistance. The Department handles policy and program issues, but not personal program delivery matters. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the issue of complaint, and the date and name of complainant. All issues dealing with federal government legislation, policies and programs as they impact on women are included.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Classes of Personal Information

Practically all records held by the Office consist of information relating to supervised financial institutions and pension plans. Some personal information may also be accumulated by the Office in the course of conducting its supervisory function, such as information on names and functions of various company officials, information on individuals seeking to incorporate a new financial institution that would be supervised by the Office, or information about a policy holder or depositor with a complaint against a supervised financial institution. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the financial institution, the individual, and the particular circumstances involved. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Part I of the Excise Tax Act imposes a tax on certain property and casualty insurance premiums related to insurance placed by residents of Canada with unauthorized insurers or with authorized insurers through brokers outside Canada. In carrying out administration of Part I of the Act, some personal information may be accumulated which is not part of the specific personal information bank described in this entry. Most of the insureds subject to the tax are corporations, but for any given year there may also be some individuals subject to tax. The personal information accumulated with respect to such individuals would be their name and address and information related to the insurance premiums subject to tax, such as policy number, description of risk, net premiums and name of insurer. The information is normally retrievable if the name of the individual and the year involved are provided.

TARIFF BOARD

Background

The Tariff Board was established in 1931. Its authority to carry out enquiries and to hear appeals is provided for under the Tariff Board Act. Its role as a quasi-judicial court of appeal is further specified in the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Special Import Measures Act and the Energy Administration Act.

The Tariff Board, made up of a chairman and six members, carries out one program consisting of two functions: to act as an independent commission of enquiry into matters on tariffs and trade, and to act as a quasi-judicial court of appeal.

In its role as a commission of enquiry, the Board undertakes specific trade and tariff studies at the request of the Minister of Finance. In conducting an enquiry, the Board invites the submission of briefs and holds public hearings at which the views of importers, manufacturers and consumers can be heard. Based upon those hearings and the work of its own research staff, the Board makes such recommendations on these matters as it deems appropriate.

In its role as a court, the Board hears appeals resulting from rulings by National Revenue, Customs and Excise on tariff classification, valuation of goods for customs purposes, and the federal sales tax. The Board's powers also include the hearing of appeals on charges levied on petroleum and petroleum products and on the exportation of any oils. Its rulings are appealable to the Federal Court and the Supreme Court.

The statutory responsibility of the Board is to adjudicate upon appeals from decisions by the Department of National Revenue, Customs and Excise and to conduct enquiries referred by the Minister of Finance or the Governor in Council into matters affecting Canada's international trade.

TREASURY BOARD (SECRETARIAT)

Background

The Treasury Board is a committee of the federal Cabinet. The President of the Treasury Board is the chairman of the committee, and its members include the Minister of Finance and four other ministers who are appointed by the Governor in Council. The Board was created by Order-in-Council in 1867 and received statutory approval in 1869. Its secretariat was part of the Department of Finance until 1966, when it became a separate Department.

Overall Responsibilities

The Treasury Board's responsibilities, as set out in the Financial Administration Act, include financial management, personnel management and central administration of the Public Service of Canada. It is also responsible for the application of the Official Languages Act within the Public Service and serves as the employer for negotiating federal Public Service collective agreements under the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

The Treasury Board is served in these functions principally by the Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat, which is divided into six branches: Program, Personnel Policy, Staff Relations, Administrative Policy, Official Languages and Administration. In addition, there are four offices — the Office of the Secretary, the Communications Division, the Submission Control Unit and the Bureau of Real Property Management.

The Secretary is the Deputy Minister, who directs the work of the Department and advises the President and the Board on all areas concerning the organization and management of the public service under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Board. The Office of the Secretary is also responsible for the co-ordination of requests received under the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act for information held by the Treasury Board Secretariat.

The bank includes language-related information such as language requirements of positions, levels of language knowledge, linguistic profiles, position classifications, and their effective dates. The information relates to employees listed in Schedule 1, Part 1 of the Public Service Staff Relations Act as well as for some other government organizations under a special agreement. This bank has been compiled to provide timely and accurate information for the implementation, control and evaluation of the Official Languages Program in the public service. Information is also disclosed for statistical purposes to the Special Groups Identification Survey in order to implement and evaluate government policies relating to employment equity. The OLIS interfaces with the Incumbent system of the Personnel Policy Branch (TBS/P-CE-705) and the Second Language Evaluation system of the Public Service Commission to collect all its incumbent related information. The OLIS also transfers some of its data to the Language Training Module.

TBS/P-CE-704

Language Training Module (LTM)

Pursuant to the Official Languages policies, LTM is a central bank containing information on language training provided to public servants at government expense. Primarily, the bank includes information such as proficiency levels trained to, hours used for language training, employee training entitlement, and type of language training received (whether given by the PSC, a department or private enterprise). The information relates to employees, current and previous, of departments and agencies listed in Schedule 1, Part 1 of the Public Service Staff Relations Act as well as some other government organizations under a special agreement. The purpose of this bank is to provide accurate, timely and reliable information to support the implementation and control of that segment of the Official Languages Program that pertains to language training provided to public servants. There is an interface between the Language Training System (LTS) of the Public Service Commission (PSC) and the LTM, (e.g. the PSC updates the LTM with the final training results and status, and the PSC is provided with a training history). An interface also exists between the Official Languages Information System and the LTM of the Treasury Board. The information is used for reference, research and statistical purposes to monitor the Official Languages Program.

Special Groups Identification Survey

This survey of the federal public service (PSSRA Schedule 1, Part 1 population) permits those individuals who are Métis, Inuit or Indian, disabled persons and/or members of visible minorities, to identify themselves as such. A service-wide census was conducted in April 1985 in order to initiate this central data bank (TBS/P-CE-706). Various methods for keeping the data bank up to date are being considered, such as voluntary self-identification of newly-hired personnel, mandatory self-identification of personnel who access special programs and services for the above-mentioned groups, and small-scale surveys which would ensure that all public servants are resurveyed every four or five years. This information relates to employees of that portion of the federal public service covered by the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Schedule 1, Part 1. The bank will be used to identify those members of the public service who are Métis, Inuit or Indian, disabled persons, and/or members of visible minorities for analysis purposes. The bank facilitates comparison of their representation in the Public Service to their presence in the population. The bank will also be used to analyze and monitor the situation and progress of the survey target populations, as compared to the rest of the public service, in terms of regional and occupational distribution, training, mobility, etc. These comparisons will be made on a regular basis in order to determine the effectiveness of affirmative action and special programs and to identify areas of possible improvement. Self-identification status and personal identification from the survey are matched, using the provided personal identification, to other files, such as the Incumbent File, other appropriate files of the Personnel Management Information System (PMIS), the Training and Development System (TDIS), the Official Languages System (OLIS), all from the Treasury Board Secretariat, and human resource data files of the Public Service Commission, such as the Quarterly Statistics File and the Appointment Information Management System. The bank contains data extracted from the survey form, such as the social insurance number and status of the particular individual. The bank will be matched by common identifier (the social insurance number) to the above-mentioned files in order to obtain information relating to age, sex, occupational group, subgroup and level, years of service, salary, etc., so that tabulations can be produced in support of analysis as described above. If a respondent has not reported his/her social insurance number, it is entered for statistical purposes only. The bank acquires information from other banks, such as the standard departmental Affirmative Action bank (P-SE-918), but no disclosure of personal information is made from this bank that could reasonably be expected to identify the individual to whom it relates. An individual requesting to access his/her registered special groups identification status should provide the social insurance number in order to guarantee response to the request. Retention period for this information is to be established.

Chapter 105

VETERANS AFFAIRS

Background

More than 600 000 Canadian men and women served in the First World War. Of these, 66 655 gave their lives and approximately 173 000 were wounded. In addition, 1 649 Newfoundlanders died in that war. In the Second World War, more than one million Canadians served their country. Of these, over 44 000 were killed and approximately 55 000 wounded. There were 714 fatalities from Newfoundland forces. During the Korean War, more than 26 000 Canadians served with the United Nations Peacekeeping Force: 516 died, 1 200 were wounded. In 1988, the Canadian veteran population is approximately 617 000 male and 27 000 female veterans.

Names of Canadians who were killed in these wars and in the Boer War are recorded in the Books of Remembrance. The original volumes, including the Newfoundland Book of Remembrance, are open to public view in the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill in Ottawa. Copies are retained in every province.

Overall Responsibilities

The Portfolio's mission is to manage special programs for veterans and other specified persons to compensate for deaths suffered and disabilities incurred in the service of Canada, or to enable them to be self-sufficient and participatory members of the community, and to otherwise perpetuate recognition of wartime sacrifice and its contribution to Canada.

The purpose of some of the original rehabilitation programs, such as re-establishment credits, was successfully fulfilled and they were phased out. Portfolio responsibilities continue to include the administration of pensions and war veterans and civilian war allowances, medical treatment, counselling, advocacy and educational assistance to children of the war dead, as well as commemoration of those who served their country during wartime.

Today, most veterans are approaching the end of their working life, and programs such as the Veterans Independence Program (VIP) are being tailored to meet their needs as they age.

Organization

The Veterans Affairs Portfolio consists of the Department of Veterans Affairs and three associated agencies, namely the Veterans Appeal Board, the Canadian Pension Commission and the Bureau of Pensions Advocates, which report to Parliament through the Minister of Veterans Affairs.

The Department of Veterans Affairs is made up of four branches and three divisions which report directly to the Deputy Minister of Veterans Affairs: Operations Branch; Administration Branch; Programs Branch; Veterans Land Administration; and the Audit Division, Corporate Services Division and Communications Division.

The Department of Veterans Affairs was created by an Act of Parliament in 1944. Previously the care of veterans had been the responsibility of the Military Hospitals Commission, the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment (created during the First World War) and then the Department of Pensions and National Health, established in 1928.

Towards the end of the Second World War, the Department of Veterans Affairs was formed to oversee expanded rehabilitation programs. The Canadian Pension Commission was formed in 1933 as the successor to the Board of Pension Commissioners that had been in operation since 1919. The War Veterans Allowance Board was established in 1936, when it replaced the War Veterans Allowance Committee. The Pension Review Board and the Bureau of Pensions Advocates were both created in 1971 as a result of amendments to the Pension Act. In 1987, the Pension Review Board and the War Veterans Allowance Board were amalgamated to form the Veterans Appeal Board.

Personal information contained in the Department of Veterans Affairs personal information banks is used by all components of the Portfolio.

The Board also interprets this legislation and is the final appeal level within Veterans Affairs.

Canadian Pension Commission

The Commission's primary function is to adjudicate claims under the Pension Act for death and disability that are a result of military service. # YUKON TERRITORY WATER BOARD

Overall Responsibilities

The Yukon Territory Water Board is a nine member quasi-judicial body appointed by and responsible to the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Its responsibility is to manage and protect the Yukon's surface and sub-surface water resources.

Water Use Licences are issued for hard rock mining, hydropower generation, municipal use in some cases, placer gold mining and other industrial purposes. A licence application received by the Board is reviewed at a public hearing which is advertised in the Canada Gazette and the local newspapers. At the hearing, the applicant presents his case before the Board; in addition, members of the public who have submitted a written Notice of Intention to Intervene before the hearing, may present arguments for or against the issuance of a licence to the applicant.

If no intervenors come forward before the date set for the public hearing, it may be cancelled. The Board considers the application without public input, and a licence is either issued or denied. A licence drafted by the Board generally contains terms and conditions which reflect a balance between protection of the water resources and their exploitation as proposed by the applicant. The licence is then sent to the Minister whose signature renders it legally effective.

The Regional Manager Water Resources, Yukon Region, Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development enforces the terms and conditions of Water Use Licences. The manager and his staff may also serve as technical advisors to the Board.
